The following actual amount of Canadian dividends can be received by an Ontario resident with no federal tax, no provincial tax, and no minimum tax, assuming no other income or deductions other than the personal and dividend tax credits.

	2011		2010
	Eligible	Ineligible	Eligible	Ineligible
i) Single taxpayer	$55,685	$38,170	$53,560	$37,495
ii) Married taxpayer (with full married credit)	61,500	44,880	59,145	44,085

The May 2006 Federal budget announced an increase to the gross-up rate for "eligible" dividends to 45% and the federal dividend tax credit to 19% of the grossed-up dividend (27.50% of the cash amount). These rates would apply to dividends paid after 2005 by public corporations or other non-Canadian controlled private corporations (CCPC's) or by CCPC's out of business income not subject to the small business deduction.

The 2008 Federal Budget announced a reduction of the dividend gross-up and the dividend tax credit for eligible dividends starting in 2010. The gross-up rate for eligible dividends will be reduced to 44% effective January 1, 2010, 41% effective January 1, 2011 and 38% effective January 1, 2012. The federal dividend tax credit for eligible dividends will be changed as follows:

2010	17.97% of the grossed-up amount	(25.88% of the cash amount)
2011	16.43% of the grossed-up amount	(23.17% of the cash amount)

For federal tax purposes the gross-up rate for non-eligible dividends remains 25% and the federal dividend tax credit is 13 1/3% of the grossed-up dividend (16 2/3% of the cash amount).

For Ontario tax purposes, the dividend tax credit for non-eligible dividends is reduced to 4.5% of the grossed-up dividend (5.63% of the cash amount) effective January 1, 2010. In August 2006, the Ontario government announced that it would harmonize with the federal proposals by increasing the dividend tax credit for eligible dividends over a 5 year period.

The dividend tax credit on eligible dividends will be phased in as follows:

2006	6.5% of the grossed-up amount	(9.43% of the cash amount)
2007	6.7% of the grossed-up amount	(9.72% of the cash amount)
2008	7.0% of the grossed-up amount	(10.15% of the cash amount)

1.18 Ontario Child Care Supplement for Working Families

The Ontario Child Care Supplement for Working Families (OCCS) replaced the Ontario Child Care Tax Credit in 1998. Since July 1, 1998, a monthly benefit is paid to eligible families with children under age 7. For families with employment and/or self-employment income, effective July 1, 2001, the benefit will be 21% of earnings over $5,000 with one child under 7, 42% with two children under 7 and 63% with three or more children under 7, to a maximum of $1,100 ($1,310 for single parents) multiplied by the number of qualifying children. Where earnings are below $5,000, a benefit of 50% of child care expenses incurred in order to attend school or obtain training is available, to a maximum of $1,100 ($1,310 for single parents) for each child under age 7. Families qualifying for both benefits will receive the greater of the two. Benefits are to be reduced by 8% of family net income in excess of $20,750. Families must file income tax returns to receive an application for the supplement.

The small business deduction is "clawed back" where the taxable capital employed in Canada exceeds $10,000,000, increasing on a pro rata basis and eliminated when taxable capital reaches $15,000,000.

- (1) The 2007 Federal Economic Statement announced a reduction of the general corporate tax rate from 18.00% to 16.50% effective January 1, 2011. These rates must be prorated for taxation years straddling January 1, 2011.
- (2) The 2009 Ontario Budget announced a reduction in the corporate tax rates effective July 1, 2011. The general rate will be reduced from 12% to 11.50%, the manufacturing rate will remain at 10% and the small business rate will remain at 4.5%. 2.3 Large Corporations Tax (LCT)

The Large Corporations Tax was eliminated as of January 1, 2006; subject to proration for non-calendar taxation years.

For purposes of the reduction of the small business deduction, the taxable capital threshold remains at $10,000,000. The reduction is calculated at a rate of 0.225% of the taxable capital of a corporation in excess of $10,000,000. For associated corporations, the taxable capital of all corporations must be taken into account in the calculation of the reduction.

2.4 Capital Tax - Ontario

The general rate for the Ontario Capital Tax is 0.0% (2010 - 0.15%) of taxable capital.

The March 22, 2007 Ontario Budget confirmed the elimination of the capital tax as of July 1, 2010. The elimination is planned as follows:

	Deduction	Capital Tax Rate
2008	$15 million	0.285%
2009	$15 million	0.225%
2010	$15 million	0.150%
2011	- Eliminated -

The 2008 Ontario Budget confirmed the elimination of the capital tax for manufacturing and resource activities retroactive to January 1, 2007. The capital tax will be fully eliminated for corporations for which salaries and wages relating to manufacturing and processing, mining, logging, farming or fishing activities, represent at least 50% of their total salaries and wages in Ontario. Where such salaries and wages represent between 20% and 50% of total Ontario salaries and wages, there will be a proportionate reduction of the capital taxes.

2.5 Ontario Corporate Minimum Tax

The Ontario Corporate Minimum Tax (CMT) applies to corporations that either have Total Assets in excess of $50,000,000 or Total Revenues in excess of $100,000,000. The CMT rate is 2.7%.

Corporate Minimum Taxable income is a corporation's accounting income, adjusted for specific income inclusions and deductions. A corporation must pay the higher of the CMT and the regular income tax. Any excess of the CMT over the regular income tax can be carried forward and applied as a credit against regular income tax in subsequent years.

2.6 Income Tax Instalments

- Monthly federal instalments required if total taxes payable for 2010 or 2009 exceeded $3,000. CCPC's qualify to make quarterly instalments instead of monthly if they are entitled to the small business deduction, the taxable income of the associated group must not exceed $500,000 and the taxable capital of the associated group must not exceed $10 million, all in either the current or previous year.
- Ontario monthly instalments required if total taxes payable for 2010 or 2009 exceeded $2,000. Effective for taxation years commencing in 2002, Ontario reduced the frequency of corporate instalments from monthly to quarterly where taxes payable in the current or preceding year are at least $2,000 but less than $10,000.

The premium rate will be the same that salaried employees currently pay. For 2011, the rate is 1.78% of insurable earnings. The payment of the premiums for individuals opting in during the 2011 calendar year will be made through their 2011 tax return.

3.3 Ontario Employer Health Tax

The Employer Health Tax (EHT) is remitted by employers based on their Ontario payroll. Employers are exempt from tax on the first $400,000 of Ontario payroll. The EHT is calculated as 1.950% of Ontario payroll in excess of the $400,000 exemption.

Employers may be required to pay EHT instalments, as follows:

Annual Payroll:	$0 – $600,000	None
	600,001 and over	Monthly

3.4 Ontario Health Premium

The Ontario Health Premium is based on an individual's taxable income for a taxation year. Individuals with taxable income of $20,000 or less will be exempt from this premium.

The rates for 2011 are as follows:

$200,600 and Over	$900

This health care premium is included in source deduction withholdings.

3.5 Source Deduction Remittances

The frequency of source deduction remittances by employers is based on the average monthly remittances made in the second preceding year. (i.e. 2011 frequency is based on average monthly remittances made in 2009). However, employers may choose to base the timing of their remittances on the prior year's average remittances, if beneficial.

The due dates for remittances are as follows:

Average Monthly Remittance	Due Date
Under $15,000	15th day of month following month when the deduction was made
$15,000 – $49,999	10th and 25th of each month

In addition, the employer must be paying the allowance in respect of its commercial activities.

4.10.2 Reimbursements

These rules dictate which rate of GST or HST applies to the supply of goods and services inside and outside of Canada.
